Statement about CCBC Course Content from the Academic Deans

Academic coursework in higher education promotes critical thinking. As such, course topics often focus on contemporary issues that are relevant to students' lives. Students bring a variety of life experience and prior knowledge to their academic work. Please be aware that students taking CCBC college credit-bearing courses are members of an adult academic community of varied disciplines that may explore sensitive, diverse, and controversial topics that will not be adjusted for younger audiences. The College supports the free expression of varying viewpoints regarding critical topics and fosters a respectful classroom and college environment.

The following signatures are required.
